Coming Soon...Economic Impact Payments

The first Economic Impact Payments (aka stimulus) were deposited into bank accounts last week. Created through the CARES Act, the payments are meant to provide fast and direct relief to Americans in the wake of the coronavirus pandemic. Aside from high-income filers, those who are claimed as a dependent, and nonresident aliens, most Americans can expect a payment via direct deposit or paper check from the U.S. Treasury. Visit the IRS website for more information and to check your payment status.

Beware of scams! These payments give scam artists another opportunity to try and steal your personal info and money. Remember the IRS will not call, text, email or contact you on social media asking for personal or bank account information. Also, be cautious of emails with attachments or links claiming to have special info about these payments. The IRS will mail a payment receipt to each taxpayer's last known address within 15 days of payment to confirm it was disbursed.

"As a community bank, as a local business... we answer to Main Street. Larger banks, online banks...answer to Wall Street."
